

FEDERAL CAREGIVER PROGRAM

FEDERAL CAREGIVER PROGRAM

Since June 18 of 2019, IRCC has opened two new fast entry options for immigration related to caregiver work: Home Child Care Providers and Home Support Workers. A total of 5,500 applications were received throughout the year. Each program approves 2,750 applicants annually, but spouses and children are not included these limits.

These two programs are for two specific jobs:

NOC4411 Home Child Care Provider -- Caring for children;

NOC4412 Home Support Worker -- Caring for the old and the disabled;

HOME CHILD CARE PROVIDER

Child caregiver are the most popular category of caregivers. Many Canadian couples work full-time and need someone to take care of the children and the family. A caregiver may or may not live at their employer's home. Caregivers need to care of one or more children, if they have early childhood education training, experience or relevant certificates this is an advantage. The responsibilities of a child caregiver are as follows:

Take care of the children.

Catering.

Housekeeping, basic laundry
(with laundry and dryer).

Some of them need to drive (for example, to pick up the children, or for family shopping, etc.).

Part-time or full-time jobs are available.

If do not want to live in the home, can rent their own house.

HOME SUPPORT WORKER

This category of caregiver serves families with the old or the disabled. Home Support Workers could include all kinds of nurses, nursing workers, domestic services, etc. Applicants who have nursing experience, holding nursing worker certificate, etc., are more popular with employers. The responsibilities of a professional Home Support Worker are as follows:

Personal care, assist in bathing, dressing and walking.

Visit and accompany the old.

Assist the patient to take medicine on time, and to attend doctor's appointments.

Housekeeping.

Laundry, cooking, cleaning.

PROGRAM ADVANTAGES

1. Work permit is no longer limited to the employer:

Upon obtaining a 3-year work permit, the applicant is restricted to only occupation categories and not to permanent employers. The applicant can choose their employer freely without changing the work permit.

2. Spouse and children can accompany:

The family can work, study and live together in Canada. Once the applicant has obtained a work visa, the spouse can also obtain an open work visa and public schools are free for children. Free Canadian medical care for the whole family.

3. Simple hiring:

Employers without an LMIA Labour market assessment may employ foreign professional caregivers.

4. Short approval time:

The immigration program takes only two years and is approved independently of other immigration programs and quotas. It is one of the most convenient and effective immigration programs.
